10 Things I'm Desperately Convinced I Need To Buy This Week

By Christie Grimm

Rationally speaking, I'm very much a less is more kind of person. Which upon reflection leads me to the obvious conclusion that about 90% of my time is spent in the irrational realm, swept up in spirals of pretty possibilities.

Hey - it could be worse!

Click through for ten of the many treasures to strike my fancy this week.

In today's edition of things I really don't need at all, these rainbow espresso cups look like they should be in The Whitney. The insane fact that I don't drink espresso, I don't have an espresso machine, and yet somehow I already possess a set of espresso cups aside, how amazing are these!?
